MORE THAN FOOD AND DRINK. PRACTICE IT!

BY MARÍA V. VELASCO
PHOTOS AGENCIAS

Do you want to enjoy the gastronomy in Barcelona and its surroundings? What about their wines? September is harvest month and the best time to enjoy the many activities designed to suit all tastes and ages. Take the plunge into one of the essences of Mediterranean culture.

You can choose from a host of tempting activities in the city of Barcelona, including taking part in a gourmet experience to learn about different wines paired with an exquisite selection of cold cuts and cheeses, as well as visiting cosy little gastronomic places. The wine tasting at Moritz Bar à Vins includes local wines paired with tasty snacks. In addition to learning about the basics of tasting wine, you will also discover the history and different flavours of Catalan and Spanish wines under the guidance of an expert sommelier.

And don't hesitate to join the Barcelona Walking Tour Gourmet, an entertaining guided tour that will teach you about the history of delicious Catalan cuisine, learning about local products (dairy products, cold cuts, chocolate, oil, nougat, wine...) in century-year-old establishments in La Ribera and Barri Gòtic neighbourhoods. Several tasting sessions are also included, one of which takes place at Jamón Experience, where you will sample six different Spanish hams paired with cava, wine or beer.

Some of the world's best wines can be found in the county of Penedès, home to world renowned wineries, such

Wine and cheese pairings

The Torres winery in the Penedès offers you a pairing of wines and cheeses, two of the cornerstones of Mediterranean cuisine. Under the guidance of a professional, you will taste four wines accompanied by four cheeses: brie-style, semi-cured, cured and blue. Take part in a food and wine experience that will awaken your senses.

The tour of the town of Alella, in the county of Maresme, takes place among vineyards and Modernista buildings. Here, you will taste organic designation of origin wines, visit a 14th-century farmhouse and discover its best local products, including its grapes. And in Torre del Veguer, in the county of Garraf, a winemaker will reveal to you the secrets of making wine and you will enjoy a wine pairing with Mediterranean tapas. Experiencing the authentic taste of the Mediterranean and its wines is the best way to welcome in the autumn. ◇

La Mercè: BCN celebrates

BARCELONA CELEBRATES ITS MAIN FESTIVAL FROM SEPTEMBER 22 TO 25: LA MERCÈ, WITH PLENTY OF ACTIVITIES FOR ALL. LET US SHOW YOU HOW TO ENJOY IT

BY GLORIA MARTÍN

When a plague of locusts invaded Barcelona in 1687, the city entrusted itself to the Virgin of Mercy (la Virgen de la Mercè) and managed to rid itself of them. In gratitude, she was named patron saint, although the Pope did not ratify the decision until two centuries later, in 1868. It was then, in September, that a festival was celebrated in her honour. Today, it is the city's main traditional festival, and its most popular. It brings together locals and foreigners alike and is held on various stages set up throughout the length and breadth of the city, offering many activities that are as numerous as they are varied.

Traditional culture figures prominently in the festival. You will learn how to dance Catalonia's traditional sardana; you will see human towers (castellers) and giant headed figures (capgrossos); you will hear còbla music, and you will be able to run behind devils spitting out fire in the correfoc.

1. 'Castellers' in front of the cathedral.
2. Traditional devils from the 'correfoc'.
3. A traditional Catalan band ('còbla').

There is a wide range of artistic and theatrical events for all audiences at the Festival Mercè Arts de Carrer, street art in Passeig de la Circumval·lació, enticing cultural activities at the Antiga Fàbrica Estrella Damm... and don't be surprised to find some French performers too, as this year's guest city is Paris.

In Plaça Catalunya, you will be able to participate in some theatrical activities, workshops, a radio studio, a mural space... You will discover an original mix of dance and digital technologies; you will see a unique interactive show performed in real time from three different spaces (Fabra i Coats, Parc Ciutadella and CCCB), and you will see a colourful mapping show on the façade of the City Hall, because technology will figure very prominently. Tradition and modernity go hand in hand during Barcelona's main festival celebration.

LA MERCÈ RACE

The popular La Mercè fun run will once again take place on September 18. The runners will pass by some of the city's most emblematic places over its 10-km length. There will also be an alternative 2-km course for people with reduced mobility. Join in the fun! Information and registration: lameva.barcelona.cat/cursamerce

Pyromusical

WATER, FIRE, LIGHT AND MUSIC

The celebrations of La Mercè culminate each year with a magnificent spectacle that combines the light show of the fountains at Montjuïc, which 'dance' for the occasion, with music and fireworks. The pyromusical show (September 25) will this year focus on 'chanson française', although it will also remember two great musicians who passed away recently: David Bowie and Prince. The show will take place in Avinguda Reina Maria Cristina.

Music for all

No party is complete without music and La Mercè knows this full well, which is why the BAM Festival offers a great range of concerts. Among others, you will be able to hear the English pop of Lloyd Cole, the blues of Algerian band Imarhan and the voices of Jeanne Added and Baaba Maal. But the month will offer more music. L'Auditori will welcome Kazuki Ono and Gianandrea Nosedà will conduct the London Symphony Orchestra at Palau de la Música, which will also host a great flamenco gala and a version of Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf for the whole family, in collaboration with Sonarkids, the dance company Brodas Bros and the Vallès Symphony Orchestra. There will also be musical theatre (in Catalan) with Dagoll Dagom and Scaramouche. The best way to bid farewell to summer is with some fine music. RENOIR AND HIS WOMEN, A MODERNISTA ARTIST, THE 'I LIKE ART' OF GALLERIES AND CERAMICS IN ARCHITECTURE, BARCELONA EXUDES ART FOR ANOTHER MONTH

His wife, his female friends and lovers, his models and actresses, anonymous bourgeois ladies and young maids. Women are omnipresent in the paintings of Pierre-Auguste Renoir (1841-1919) and now an exhibition at the Fundación Mapfre unveils them. From Dance at Le Moulin de la Galette (1876) to the nymphs featured in The Bathers (1919), more than 60 works from the Musée d'Orsay and l'Orangerie in Paris making up the exhibition 'Renoir among Women' (September 17 to January 8). A selection of works throughout the career of one of the greats of Impressionism and the different aspects of the female universe he portrayed. His paintings also contrast with those of his contemporaries and the new modern generation: Van Gogh, Maurice Denis, Degas, Pierre Bonnard, Picasso...

Another woman will feature in an exhibition at the Museu Nacional d'Art de Catalunya from September 23 to January 1. But in this case it will be the artist herself: Lluïsa Vidal, who was part of the Catalan Modernisme movement. This painter, draughtswoman and illustrator is especially noted for her portraits.

2. Self portrait of Lluïsa Vidal, 1899 (Museu Nacional d'Art de Catalunya).

Barcelona is a city full of art with a proliferation of sculptures and outdoor murals, museums and galleries. The Gremi de Galeries d'Art de Catalunya (GGAC), comprising more than 50 galleries, has this September launched its season with new exhibitions. And it has done so under the accurate slogan of 'I Like Art', which proves the bond of all its members under a common premise: a love for art. In addition, GGAC and Vermuts Miró are running a competition to choose an image (painting, drawing or photograph) to illustrate the label of Vermouth Reserve Miró Limited Edition 2017. Art and cheers to all! <

CERAMICS IN ARCHITECTURE

Some 300 pieces of ceramics from around the world as applied to architecture from ancient times until today, especially in the Mediterranean and Middle East, is the attractive show on offer from Barcelona's Museu del Disseny (DHUB). The 'De obra' show will run from September 16 to January 29 and it is well worth a visit. So to is the museum itself, with its splendid collections of decorative arts and graphic and industrial design from the early 20th century. Excellent proof that Barcelona and design always go hand in hand. <http://ajuntament.barcelona.cat/museudeldisseny/en>

The pairing experience

A WINE BAR, RESTAURANTS AND WINE AND CAVA SHOW WILL GIVE YOU A UNIQUE GASTRONOMIC EXPERIENCE

BY ROSARIO SÁNCHEZ

If you love wine, you are in luck because you will certainly have a great time in Barcelona. Excellent quality local wines and cavas have a long tradition here and are inseparable from gastronomy. And not only can you enjoy them in restaurants, but also as part of a host of different experiences

For starters, there is nothing better than visiting the Catalan wine and cava show (Mostra de

Vins i Caves de Catalunya) that will take place in Passeig Lluís Companys from September 22 to 25, coinciding with the La Mercè celebrations. It is the ideal place for you to discover the various designations of origin of local wines, learning about the historical importance of wine in these parts and many other interesting facts, from how vines are grown to how winemakers work, without forgetting Catalan wineries, many of which are internationally recognised. And you will taste not only some wines and cavas, but also some cold cuts and cheeses.

Another place you shouldn't miss out on is La Vinoteca Torres, where the wines from the prestigious Torres winery and dishes by Manel Jiménez form a tempting combination. Located in Barcelona's central Passeig de Gràcia, the restaurant offers uniquely modern cuisine and wine based on tradition.

Another recommended restaurant with its own enoteca is Barcelona Milano. Apart from its extensive menu, which mixes Catalan and Italian cuisines, it offers more than 400 types of wines from around the world. You can't say that you have no choice! Download the free restaurant app and enjoy Barcelona's cuisine: apps.barcelonaturisme.com

Enogastronomy

WINE IS ALSO CULTURE

Tastings, conferences, meetings with international experts, quality cuisine... you will be able to find all this and much more at Monvínic, where wine features as the main star. It is not just a place to serve wine, although it does offer more than 3,000 from around the world. Nor is it simply a restaurant, although under the culinary direction of Guillem Oliva, chef Hector Barbero prepares some exquisite creative cuisine using local products. And nor is it just a place to discover new wines, although it offers a daily selection of between 40 and 50 wines that you can enjoy in half or full glasses. Monvínic is, in fact, a global space that focuses on the culture of wine in a friendly atmosphere. And its premises also won the FAD Interior Design Award 2009.

Monvínic's wine cellar has wines from five continents.

SHOPPING

City centre shopping

WHETHER IN SMALL STORES OR IN MALLS, YOU WILL FIND ALL YOU NEED IN THE CITY CENTRE

BY JUANJO GARMENDIZ

The Barcelona city centre is dotted with boutiques. There are internationally famous, made-in-Barcelona stores like Desigual, with its colourful clothes, Mango and its quality design, and Custo, with its tones and blended fabrics. Unique clothing can also be found at Otto Van Rhusk, the best leading brands at Felgar and limited editions and innovative clothes at Coshop Designers Made in Barcelona. Lovers of jeans should visit Jack&Jones and the Levi's Store. The legendary American brand has been revolutionising the sec-

There is also no shortage of shoe stores: Padevi, with models for everyone, Camper and its casual footwear, Mar Bessas and her leather models or the carefully chosen shoes of Casas and Scala Dei. If you are looking for made-in-Barcelona souvenirs, head to 4retinas, BCN Original or Empremtes de Catalunya. Art Escudellers offers its own creations and you can find articles created by prestigious architects and designers, including Gaudí, at Cooperativa d'Arquitectes Jordi Capell. Quality art from throughout Spain can be found at Itaca, while exclusive museum objects await you at MACBA Store Laie.

There are also stores for those with a sweet tooth: Torrans Vicens, Be Chocolat and La Chinata Oleoteca Gourmet. And if you are travelling with children, head to the Disney Store, where Mickey, Nemo and princesses all gather, and both young and old will have fun at Futbolmania, the world's largest football store.

But if you want to buy everything you need in one place go to Plaça Catalunya, where you will find the El Triangle shopping mall and El Corte Inglés department store. <
